

SALLY DRAPER WELLESLEY NEH FALL FAIR AMBASSADOR EXPERIENCE

This year serving as the Wellesley Fall Fair ambassador has been exciting, enlightening, and has been more fun than I had ever imagined. From smiling in parades to shearing a sheep while I wore a dress, the opportunities never end. This past February I attended the three day OAAS Convention at the luxurious Fairmount Royal York Hotel, where I was able to network with other ambassadors, make amazing friends, and learn more about what agriculture means to communities like ours throughout Ontario. This August I will be attending the Canadian National Exhibition, where I will further represent our fair and Agricultural society in vying for the ambassador position of the CNE. My Tiara has been through our fair in Wellesley, frozen in Christmas parades, and seen the incredible OAAS Conference. Through these experiences I have had the opportunity to develop my personal skills, time management, and the ability to smile for days. Thanks to the Ambassador Experience I have made lifelong friends, and have learned just how valuable all of our volunteers and their hard work are to our community. See you this year at the fair!
